The bullion in the Bank of England has decreased £181,000

WASHINGTON CITY.

WASHINGTON, May 11 —Astonishment is expressed in official circles at the publication of the treaty of Washington in the New York Tribune this afternoon Some official enquiry will be made as to the mystery of the publication and the means of the correspondent in obtaining the information and of obtaining the debates in secret session.

The message of the President communicating the treaty to the Senate is said to be very brief and contains no recommendation, but merely submits it for consideration

The President has directed General N. Michler to be relieved from duty as Superintendent of Public Buildings and Grounds and that General O E Babcock be assigned to duty as Superintendent in his place

SAN FRANCISCO, May 12 —The Democratic State Central Committee have decided to hold their State Convention June 20 h at Sacramento The test adopted for the primaries is all who are opposed to the radical measures of Congress and who pledge themselves to vote for all the nominees of the Democratic party at the next election The manner of selecting delegates to the Convention is left to the different County Commissioners, but where primary elections are not held it is made the duty of each representative of a ward or precinct in a county to select and name the delegates for his ward The representatives are fixed at one delegate for each county, one for every two hundred votes cast for Seymour and Blair at the last Presidential election and one for every 100 votes or any fractional number over 100 This will give San Francisco 69 delegates, and make the entire number of delegates 313

A W Pitts, who arrived here from New York in August, 1849, on the bark Stag ..., and was subsequently partner in the firm of Pitts, Grissim & Hopstein, died here last evening, aged 53

A Short Practical Sermon.

The following article appears in the New Northwest under the caption, "A Few Facts," and potent facts they are, too

In an official report made to the Legislature of a certain State for 1869, it was ascertained that of one hundred and seven patients in an insane asylum thirty nine were farmers' wives and sixteen farmers' daughters No other class of wives or daughters was half so numerous Sad indeed is the record, sad indeed the comment!

To be plain about it, under the system of civilization of this country the farmers' wife is a household drudge That there are honorable exceptions we will not deny, and we are glad that such exist, but it is perfectly safe to say that on three farms out of every four the wife works harder, endures more and sleeps less than any three men on the place We speak from extended observation and experience

Time, money and health are often sacrificed to the carelessness of a husband about providing such things as are sure to be needed in a farmer's house We have visited at the house of a farmer who owns in connection with his wife, 600 acres of land, being the balance of a donation claim of 640 acres Forty acres were sold by the husband several years ago to enable him to gratify his taste in the purchase of a "blooded" horse They have a large two story barn of a house complete as to the carpenter's work and painting, but there is not a yard of carpet or a window shade in the building The wife, who was a ruddy faced and happy-hearted girl a few years ago, is now faded and care worn, the victim of over work We ventured to suggest, in the presence of her husband that she ought to buy carpets for the house and save herself such endless scrubbing of naked floors "We're too poor to afford it," was the masculine reply "Sell forty acres of your land," we suggested to the wife "Couldn't think of it," said the ruler of the realm We hope that we suggested a mild insurrection in that kingdom before we left it If we didn't, it wasn't our fault

No wonder that women immured for long years in lonely farm houses at hopeless drudgery sometimes lose their reason No wonder that exuberance of youth and beauty depart, and that not unfrequently haggard faces, that once were radiant, gaze from behind the bars and gates of insane asylums—the hopeless victims being driven thither by man's misrule, while man himself is wholly unconscious of the crime never dreaming that he has sacrificed the wife he promised to protect, to the mighty moloch of his own selfishness A woman's taste for beautiful surroundings calls as loudly for gratification as does a man's for fine horses and broad acres.

It is gratifying to observe the favor with which the new United States loan for the refunding of the national debt has been received in the financial market The securities offered by the Government in its negotiations to this end are, beyond a peradventure among the safest anywhere obtainable and no stronger evidence that the public appreciate the fact need be sought for than in the rapidity with which the several classes of bonds are being bought up Apart from patriotic motives which should induce capitalists and all others about making investments to regard these securities with a friendly eye they offer advantages in a business point of view which no wise financier will overlook

The Burnt river ditch company, in Baker county, have yet 33 miles of ditch to dig and want to employ about 250 more men.

LAST NIGHT'S DISPATCHES.

WASHINGTON CITY

The Treaty with England

NEW YORK, May 12 —The Tribune's Washington special says there are very few who criticize the treaty of Washington as a whole but the following are some points which will arise in debate They will relate principally to the articles which provide for the settlement of the claims of British subjects Considerable surprise is expressed by Sumner and one or two others that the American Commissioners did not insist that Great Britain should submit a schedule of claims of her subjects so that it might be definitely known what kind they are and what the amount is, and whether they include those to which the American public will object

Granville's letter to Lord Lyons about the claims of British subjects in France, has been cited to show that there is no occasion to fear that they will be large But the reply to this assurance is that we are not sure that England will abide by these precedents, and that it would have been much more satisfactory to have had these points definitely settled in the treaty itself To show that their claims may be very considerable in amount, it is said that one million and five hundred dollars are involved in the case of the Peterhoff alone which was captured in the Rio del Norte and condemned

WASHINGTON, May 12 —Attention was called in the Senate to the premature publication of the treaty, and there was a spirited debate on that subject An investigation has been ordered

Cameron stated that the Committee on Foreign relations will not be ready to report the treaty until Monday

The Senate adjourned until Monday next

The committee to investigate the premature publication of the treaty consists of Carpenter, Conkling, Trumbull, Davis and Sumner Much indignation was expressed by some of the Senators at what they considered a violation of privileges of the Senate

The Committee on Foreign Relations held an adjourned meeting at 10 A M to day continuing until 12 o'clock Assistant Secretary of State, Davis, was before the Committee to finish the explanation of the treaty.

EASTERN STATES

ERIE, Pa May 12 —The mill between Mace and Coburn was interrupted in the first round by the militia, and was, therefore, undecided The ring was pitched at Hay Creek, two and a half miles from Port Dover, Canada Barney Aaron was chosen master of ceremonies Alderman McMullen, of Philadelphia, was chosen for referee, but just before the commencement of the fight he appeared in the ring and declined serving Dick Hollywood of Indianapolis, was then chosen for that position At 12 o'clock the parties faced each other over the scratch Neither seemed disposed to hazard the first blow Coburn gradually yielded to Mace's aggressive movements and retired to his corner Mace did not follow this challenge closely, but returned and stood close by the scratch Shortly the jeering of the crowd brought Joe from his corner, and the men faced each other again Joe then backed to his corner the second time, as before, without a blow and Mace returned to the scratch These tactics were repeated nine times, until an hour and twelve minutes had elapsed without a blow being passed by either party It was evidently Coburn's dodge to entice his antagonist over to his corner, where a mob had collected in great force, but Mace refused to follow him more than four feet beyond the scratch

At twelve minutes past one o'clock the Canadian authorities, represented by Judge Wilson and Edmund Deeks, Sheriff of Norfolk county, rushed into the ring, read the riot act, and ordered the assemblage to disperse or be fired on by the militia The militia, numbering about sixty five men, under the command of Col Tisdale, were drawn up in line about twenty rods away They were armed with loaded rifles, and the mob deemed it expedient to disperse at once No arrests were made

Later —The referee has decided that the fight shall come off in three weeks from to-day at Kansas City, Missouri

ARRAIGNMENT OF NEW YORK DEMOCRACY.

Address of the Republican Members of the Legislature.

DEMOCRATIC ARTIFICES TO OBTAIN CONTROL OF LEGISLATION—A TRAITOR IN THE REPUBLICAN CAMP—WHAT THE RULING PARTY COSTS THE STATE—A DEFICIENCY OF $10 000 000—THE PEOPLE OPPRESSED BY TAMMANY MAGNATES—EVERY DEPARTMENT OF GOVERNMENT PROSTITUTED TO PARTY PURPOSES—DEMOCRACY THE FRIEND OF MONOPOLISTS.

ALBANY, April 29, 1871

The Republican members of the Legislature have issued an address to the people of the State, in which they say the election of a Democratic Speaker and the appointment of partisan committees were accomplished by counting out Twombly and counting in Carey that by this act the Democratic managers seized the control of the law making power of the State, that against Republican efforts and votes they practically abolished the New York registry law, throwing the ballot boxes open to fraud that fearing the restraint of officers acting under the authority of the laws of Congress and publicity afforded by independent inspectors, they have provided for boxes for votes cast for members of Congress and Presidential electors separate from those for State and local officers, that they have by amending the charter for New York, taken the right of election of School Commissioners away from the people and extended the terms of office of other officials that by enacting a new tax law for that city they dictate to the Supervisors the amount of tax they shall levy that they have legislated in behalf of officials in Buffalo at the expense of the people that though their supremacy was temporarily suspended by the passion and violence of two of their partisans, yet one who had been trusted by a Republican constituency suddenly deserted, became a traitor and a Democrat, and continued them in power that though they passed a law to fill the vacancy caused by Irving's resignation they refused to make it general

The address then discusses the financial condition of the State, and claims that the Comptroller's estimates call for $19 000 000 without including $2 500,000 for canal deficiencies and which swells the liabilities to $21 500 000, in the face of which the tax levied will not only $12 000,000, which added to the $650,000 from other sources, will leave a deficit of $6,250,000 which the Democrats have not the honesty nor manliness to provide for by taxation To this is added the appropriations in the Supply and Charity bills which they say will swell the total deficiency to $10,000 000 They say the net receipts from the canals for ten years ending in 1869 averaged $3,000 000 per year, while in 1870 they were below $574 000, which did not pay expenses

The address concludes by charging the Democracy with unwillingness to trust the people, refusing New York city a voice in raising and disbursing moneys, denying to localities the right to decide upon the local prohibition of the sale of liquor, refusing the privilege to the people to decide upon the constitutional amendment to prohibit sectarian appropriations, centralizing in the hands of their party managers immense political powers, authorizing them to raise unlimited amounts of money to be used possibly for personal or political purposes They have shown themselves friends of monopolies created boards and bureaus, multiplied officials, increased salaries and extended the tenure of office without the consent of the people They have increased the public expenditures in all directions and have been lavish of moneys to be expended by party favorites while great public enterprises are allowed to languish for lack of needed aid They have passed by measures proposed to adjust and lighten burdens of taxation, and they have proved recreant to their duties and are unworthy of further continuance in power

The address is signed by every Republican member of the Senate and House of Assembly

A LOCOMOTIVE LET LOOSE BY MISCHIEVOUS BOYS —The Pittsburg Gazette of April 29th says Last evening engine No 7 arrived on time at the Connellsville railroad depot with the passenger train and after being detached from the cars and shifted several hundred yards above the depot on a side track, it was left with full head of steam on by the engineer and fireman, while they went for their supper During their brief absence, two mischievous boys got aboard and reversing the engine, started the locomotive along the track They stuck bravely to their posts till a fearful rate of speed was attained, and then frightened, both jumped safely off, and the engine and tender swept like a streak of lightning through the long depot, and on coming in contact with the bumpers or heavy timber guards at the terminus of the track shivered them into splinters and broke the gate into fragments Gaining the wharf the engine was somewhat checked in its wild course toward the river by a deep gutter but it plowed its way, to the great damage of cobble stones, some forty feet beyond its point of escape from the rails and there halted with its wheels deeply imbedded in the earth The locomotive was somewhat injured—the cow catcher being completely destroyed Had the accident occurred during business hours there might have been loss of life attending it The boys who caused all the trouble were not to be discovered after the accident

From the Albany Democrat We are told that last Sunday a lady sixty five years old, named Crane, gave birth to a child while traveling on the stage between Oakland and Slab Town The stage went on to Slab Town where she was put off and herself and child kindly cared for.

The Daily Oregonian.

SATURDAY MORNING, MAY 13, 1871.

Lands and Settlers.

In many parts of the Wallamet valley landholders are putting up prices so that men of moderate means cannot reach them, and consequently some disappointment is felt and expressed by those who have just arrived in the State and who had been informed that they could buy cheap lands. Many who start to Oregon commit the mistake of supposing that they are coming to a new country, when in fact the settled portions of the State, and especially the principal western valleys, have been occupied much longer than Minnesota and Kansas. Some, who have no idea of this, are disappointed on reaching here and finding their mistake. They find they must either buy land or go outside of the established settlements; and most of the choice lands west of the Cascade mountains are occupied or claimed.

Yet though lands in many parts of Wallamet valley have advanced considerably in price within a year, in many other localities in the valley they may still be purchased at low rates. Perhaps there has been less excitement of speculation in Clackamas than in any other county in the valley, and many tracts of the finest lands may still be bought there, we are informed, at five dollars per acre, or even less. Throughout the whole area of country south of the Molalla, and east of Pudding river, lands can be obtained at low figures. Most of them are covered with brush, but they are not difficult to clear, and are as fertile as can be found anywhere. Even improved lands in Clackamas can be bought at reasonable figures, the reason why they have not shared to much extent in the general rise being that they are somewhat out of the line railroad excitement.

But, if people who wish land do not wish to purchase, but want to take homesteads, there are chances enough—not, indeed, to obtain prairie lands in favored localities, but to come by lands which industry, in a few years, will develop to excellent farms. Many settlers are going this spring into Columbia county, and there is room for many more. [illegible] the Nehalem Valley there is a fine opportunity, and it will be but a few years until that [illegible] is developed into an excellent and desirable country. In the north-western part [illegible] Washington county, on the table lands that lie above the Tualatin Plains, there is a large extent of fertile and desirable land, which would be easy to clear and which in a few years will be very well situated. And, in fact, along the skirts of the Wallamet valley on both sides, there is a good deal of very [illegible] vacant land.

[illegible] of the Cascade mountains there are [illegible] fine valleys, offering advantages [illegible] agriculture and stock-growing. Many who come to Oregon will look in that [illegible]. It must be admitted that in several [illegible] respects there are advantages [illegible] mountains for new-comers which [illegible] here.

Another View of the Lock Question.

[illegible] reply to the Herald, the Oregon [illegible] reviews the canal and locks [illegible] declares that it "cannot con[illegible] certain parties to shoulder this [illegible] Democratic party." Inasmuch [illegible] shouldered on the Democratic party,—since that party passed the bill and the State organ defends it as a Democratic measure,—[illegible] curious how the Enterprise will clear [illegible] party [illegible] the odium. That paper declares [illegible] great public wrong has been committed, [illegible] quotes from the proceedings of the Legislature to confute an article on the subject which recently appeared in the Herald, and adds:

[illegible] will be seen by the above that the Legislature refused to allow the Governor to let the contract [illegible] the lowest bidder; and they refused to specify that the State would only pay for the locks the sum over and above the $200,000 of their value when the State shall be authorized to take them; and they further refused to insert "gross receipts" instead of "net profits." It will also be seen that the [illegible] that the P. T. Company did not propose to construct similar locks to those of the Wallamet [illegible] is simply bosh, as the above proceedings show the minority report proposed to insert in this very bill the name of the P. T. Company in place of Wallamet Locks Company.

The Enterprise, however, in order to parry [illegible] damaging facts, resorts to an extremely disingenuous expedient. It pretends that the bill could not have been passed without the aid of Republican members. Now, the vote on the bill in the House was 28 ayes to 15 nays. Three Republican members did, indeed vote aye, and we shall attempt no apology for them. But had they voted no, the bill would still have passed by a vote of 25 to 18. The large Democratic majority was practically a unit for the bill. It was not in the power of the Republican minority at any time to defeat the measure. Mr. Dorris of Lane county was the only Democratic member who made any considerable opposition to it. He more than intimated that the majority were rushing the bill through because it gave them an opportunity of voting away to their political friends the people's money. The Democratic party had two-thirds of the members [illegible] each branch of the Legislature, and will be held responsible for the acts of that body. It cannot excuse itself by saying that three Republicans voted with them on the locks question, when the situation was such that those votes made no sort of difference in the result. There were twenty-five Democratic and three Republican votes in the House for the bill, and twelve Republican and three Democratic votes in the same branch against it. In the Senate the Democrats voting for it constituted a clear majority of that branch of the Legislature. A Democratic Governor approved the bill and all the Democratic newspapers in the State, except the Enterprise, defend it. On the other hand the Republican journals, without exception denounce it. Under these circumstances the Enterprise cannot very well prevent this measure from being "shouldered on the Democratic party."

A remarkable piece of enterprise is noted by the Chicago Post. In February of last year, a Mr. Booth, of that city, with a view of improving the oysters on the Pacific coast sent over three barrels of the New York seed oyster, a part of which were planted in the bay nearly opposite San Francisco, and the remainder sent to Puget Sound for trial. On the 13th of the present month, a part of those planted in California were lifted and forwarded to Mr. B. as samples from which he could judge of the value of the enterprise. They had increased on an average of from three to four times in size, showed the most perfect adaptation to their new location, and were remarkably fat and luscious, differing in this respect totally from the native type. The increase in quantity showed that they were capable of an indefinite improvement. Ten car-loads of seed have since been forwarded.

A Source of Perplexity.

Really this matter is perplexing. Some way should be found to ascertain and settle the "eternal principles" of the Democratic party, at once. All now is chaos and confusion. In one of the organs of that party in this State we read the following:

> The OREGONIAN has hoped that fuss, feathers and fury would characterize our deliberations, and that we would pronounce for the immediate disfranchisement of the blacks, the annulling of the amendments and such like things. What has it to say now that we do not propose to do any such things?

The above is from the Governor's organ at Salem. Here is what the Albany Democrat says:

> If Jeff. Davis said (in his recent speech at Selma, Ala.,) that it was the noble mission of the Democratic party to annul all the black amendments which have been fraudulently injected into the Constitution by Radical manipulations, then he uttered a great fact, and one that the future will surely establish.

And this from the Oregon City Enterprise:

> The amendments to which the Radicals desire the pledge of the Democracy were made by fraud and force. The people have never accepted the situation, and the hope of the country is in the fact that they never will. * * When the Democracy attempts to accept the situation brought about by the Radicals, its usefulness will be at an end, and the people will have no need for it longer.

Need we suggest, after the above variant opinions, that there is an imperative necessity for a council of the party to meet at once, to ascertain just what the "immutable principles of Democracy" are and to establish a creed for the faithful to support? At present there are two Democracies, and it not a little difficult to decide which is the genuine article.

The Democratic Era prints a speech by Senator Schurz on the San Domingo question, and says there is "more sound argument and practical common sense" in it "for Democrats to remember than forty windy editorials about the 'paramount authority of the Constitution and the Resolutions of '98.'" Which is much like a confession that Democrats have not ability to expound their own principles. Hence they are recommended to a high "Radical" authority, "Democratic principles" must be somewhat unsettled just now, when Messrs. Schurz and Sumner are accepted as the chief lights of the party.

> After just one week of intense study over a short article on the tariff question, which appeared in the Herald eight days ago, the OREGONIAN replied thereto yesterday morning.—Herald.

Is the Herald quite sure that it does not flatter itself? The OREGONIAN during the whole week was employed in more important business, which being disposed of, it had a moment's time for lighter matters; so it turned to the Herald's free trade article of the week before, and in a paragraph or two exploded its pretensions. The idea of devoting a "week's intense study" to anything found in Grasshopper Jim's organ! 'Tis nauseating. An ounce of civet, good apothecary.

Our neighbor journal at East Portland reminds a School Director of this city that "the day when dishonest practices can be shielded behind high-born impudence is about over in Oregon." It would appear that the person alluded to affects to despise the imputations of those who suppose that anything corrupt could influence him. Motives in this case need not be imputed. But the public are in possession of a knowledge of certain acts which they know good intentions can never consort with. It is therefore totally unavailing for him to hold a lofty tone about his motives and affect to despise suspicion.

The President and his Critics.

[From the Boston Advertiser.]

In one of his perorations Mr. Sumner reminded the President that he who ruled his own spirit is greater than he who captures a city. The President has shown that he did not need that lesson.

What did this country expect of General Grant when it chose him President? What did the Republican party expect? And what did he promise? He promised as little as he is apt to promise. He promised that he would fulfil the duties of the office as well as he could. To the Republican party, as such, he made no special pledge, beyond what was implied in his accepting their nomination. Had the Republican party any other candidate to bring forward? After the failure of its own choice, Mr. Andrew Johnson, was it so well assured of its position before the country that it could elect any man it brought forward? Were its different leaders and sections so united that it could with much confidence unite in convention on any who happen to be at the front? It was in no condition to pin him up with terms or promises of administration, had he been the man to give pledges to anybody who asked for them. The Republican party took General Grant from its general confidence in the man. He was in no way pledged to its organized methods. It was understood that he had not acted with it before the war. It was feared that the party could choose nobody else. It was also known that the rank and file of the party and most of its leaders wanted to choose no one else. It chose General Grant with its eyes open, and his administration began. He did not choose his cabinet from the leaders of the party. Hence these fears, all of them. Wisely or unwisely, often in our judgment unwisely, he chose men unknown to the country at large, some of whom have proved inefficient. He has been the worst sufferer from this choice. He has had to bear obloquy which others ought to have borne. He has had to shoulder blunders which never should have been made. But all their blunders and all the obloquy have never made the President waver in his loyalty to the great party which chose him, nor to the will of the country he undertook to serve. There is no savor of Johnsonism or Tylerism in his proceedings. He represents at this moment the most "advanced Republicans." That is to say he is urging in all ways at his command, as no other public man does, the policy of nationality and the policy of equal rights, which are the two cardinal principles for which the party exists at all. And it even proves convenient for those whose position obliges them to blame,—having entertained us for years with wails about Cæsarism and other forms of imperialism,—to sneer at him now because he is willing to stop in his own projects if they cross the will of the American people.

The Republican party has gained at the hands of General Grant more than it dared ask for, all that it had a right to hope for, and much more than its enemies expected. He has supposed, it is true, that a President of the United States had some privileges and duties as well as some responsibilities. He has not accepted the convenient theory that the President of the United States is only an office-clerk of the central Republican committee, or an officer specially appointed to countersign documents sent down to him from the departments. He has maintained a careful personal knowledge of the condition and requirements of the various States of the Union. He might be said to be his own Secretary of the Interior—so wide has been his correspondence and so correct his information. He has had theories, such as a military man might be expected to have, with regard to the suppression of disorder. He does not mean to be President of a country in which four or five millions of his fellow-citizens have no rights whatever. He watches the country, means to have peace in the country, and believes that peace is to be maintained, if needful, by a strong hand. In these opinions the intelligent sense of the country is with him. We doubt if the Republican party will find for itself any better policy.

E. Soule, of Sacramento, is engaged in the manufacture of farm wagons, which he turns out at $150 to $160 each, making a fair profit on the business.

OREGON.

C. M. Cartwright and others will drain their their lands in and about Lake Labish this Summer.

A letter from Brownsville says: There is great excitement over the prospect of a city being built at the depot west of this place.

Two Frenchmen, named respectively Thierry and Archambault, were killed in mining claims in Baker county, a few days ago, by banks caving on them.

The Bed Rock Democrat, published in Baker county, has finished its first year. Its editor and proprietor, Mr. M. H. Abbott, denies the statement that he contemplates going to Montana.

From the Albany Register: On Monday, Messrs. Russell, Ferry & Woodward, of Portland, sold sixteen thousand eight hundred acres of the Wallamette Valley and Cascade Mountain Wagon Road Company's land, to a gentleman who lately arrived from the State of Vermont, who has come to Oregon to make it his future home.

The Albany Democrat says a "gentleman" writes to it from Roseburg as follows: "I wish you to send me the Democrat as long as there is a negro-loving, wench-hugging, Democrat hating, law-breaking, abolition office holder in the land. Wishing you, the paper, and the cause of Democracy and Liberty success, I am, &c." Ten to one that that "gentleman" has a colored wife, or lives or has lived in concubinage with an Indian squaw.

The land question would appear to be effectually settled by the following letter, which is printed in the Statesman:

> Coquill Apr 23 1871
> Mr Editor
> I see from the Statsmon of the 19 that you are in truble again about the State Lands that the Coperheads are a Gobling it ale up are you not sorey that you Blacks are such foils that you have not take the benefit of the Land act

From the Baker City Democrat: A correspondent informs us that a Mrs. Doosty, formerly of Baker City, absconded from Amelia City, Tuesday night, April 25, about eight o'clock. The citizens, supposing she had committed suicide, proceeded to drag the reservoir, with silk thread and pin hooks. On further investigation they found that she had taken all her good clothes, and what ready cash her husband had on hand—when the fishing ceased—it being now quite evident that she had been caught on a pin hook of another kind entirely. The joke is said to be a good one, and easily understood by the citizens of Amelia.

THE TERRITORIES.

Port Townsend will soon have four churches, viz: Episcopal, Methodist, Universalist, and Jewish.

At Olympia they have got the land donations for the railroad up to 5,876 acres, besides 443 town lots.

Preparations are making to abandon Camp Three Forks, Owyhee. The soldiers will be sent elsewhere.

A discovery is reported to have been made of a wonderful cave out on the overland road about fifty miles from Owyhee.

The total amount of internal revenue collected in Washington Territory for three years ending May 6th, was $185,063 51.

L. A. Mullan of Walla Walla, an attorney, has been arrested on a charge of embezzling funds which he had collected for another party.

The walls of the U. S. assay office at Boise City are completed and the roof is now being put on. The building will be ready for business next winter.

The editor of the Port Townsend Message has excited the ire of "T. G. Murphy, editor," by stating that he (the said Murphy) "was about to give up editing the Alaska Times, and take to the stage in future." And now he is required to take it back or "suffer the consequences." A dilemma, indeed!

A SUICIDE.—The San Francisco Call of May 2d has this:

Yesterday morning John W. Davis, formerly a Sergeant in Company G, Fourteenth Regiment of Infantry, United States Army, was found dead in his room at the Philadelphia House, on Bush street. A glance was sufficient to show that he had committed suicide by cutting the arteries of his right arm with a razor that was found on a table in the room. Near the razor was a letter addressed, "Call office, Frisco," and it read as follows:

> "The Daily Call: Publish this letter for me. I am going to fill a suicide's grave, and may God forgive me. I have left $1,000 in the bank at Portland for the Orphan's Home. May the children who receive the benefit of it be men for the good of society.
> JOHN W. DAVIS."

For several days previous to his death he gambled his money very freely, and on Thursday night lost about $500 at a faro table.

JUST ARRIVED.—B. L. Stone has just received a large supply of Gold and Silver Watches of all the best patterns made. Also, Gold and Silver Chains for Ladies and Gents and elegant Opera Chains.

Also, a large assortment of the finest Jewelry and Precious Stones, Gold Headed Canes, a large lot of Spectacles, Plate and Silver Ware, and all kinds of Clocks. Mr. Stone is satisfied with quick sales and small profits.

IMPORTANT TO SUFFERERS FROM NERVOUS EXCITEMENT.—A gentleman residing in Grammercy Place, New York, (whose name it would not be proper to mention), was suffering terribly about three weeks ago from the effects of dissipation. He could not sleep, vomited frequently, was tormented by horrible fancies, and could not keep a limb still. Opiates made him worse. While in this condition he was visited by a friend, who advised him to try PLANTATION BITTERS as an anodyne, stomachic and tonic. "No use," said the sick man, despondingly, "nothing will save me. I'm a gone case." "Pshaw!" said his friend, "you're worth forty dead men, yet! I'm going to doctor you now." So saying, he put on his hat and going to the nearest druggist, presently returned with a bottle of Bitters, of which he administered a dose forthwith. It had a soothing, cheering, tranquilizing effect. For a week thereafter the gentleman continued to take the tonic regularly, according to the directions, and at the end of that time was able to return to business in sound health and with a clear intellect. Landsberger & Co., of San Francisco, are extensively engaged in the manufacture of sparkling wine, their product being about 1,600 cases per month.

It is yet too early to conjecture what shape the political contest in California will assume; but a few weeks hence affairs will be so far developed that an idea may be formed as to the probable result of the election. That event will take place in September.

The California sirocco is a phenomenon. It is a north east wind coming from the arid plains, and blasts and withers vegetation almost like a fire had swept over it. In the course of a few days it turns green fields into brown and the parched earth opens in cracks. Our rain, with certainty of good crops is better than this sirocco in the "favored" land of California.

TAMMANY HALL

SOME OF THE INSIDE HISTORY—HOW IT SETS UP AND PULLS DOWN—TWEED THE RAJAH—AND HIS JOBS

We take the following from a recent letter from George A Townsend in the Chicago Tribune

TWEED THE RAJAH

Wm M Tweed is now believed to be the third man in point of wealth, in the United States, he having boasted to several persons that he was worth nearer $20 000 000 than $15,000 000. In 1861 he was in the city of Washington, and, on inquiry by some friend here, he stated that by a good deal of work and thrift he had got together $20,000 and he added that he meant to keep it, for as you may know, Tweed and his brother who were in business, failed a few years before the war, and Tweed took the benefit of the bankrupt act. About 1862 Elijah Purdy, a respectable Tammany Democrat of the former day, who was an officer of a savings bank on Astor place remarked to a group of gentlemen

"Old Tammany Hall is losing all its character. There is Bill Tweed, who has never had any standing in Tammany, and he has absolutely got $40,000 now. I know' said Mr Purdy, "that he has got $40 000, but how could he have come by it?"

What would the old "wheel horse of the Democracy" say if he were now alive, at the fact that Tweed stands next to Astor and Stewart in worldly possessions? And that nearly the whole of this he has made since 1863 and the bulk of it between 1866 and 1871? Some time ago the eldest son wanted to be nominated for Congress but Tweed refused to let him have the nomination saying contemptuously

'He shall not throw away his time on an insignificant place like that!'

"What office would you let him have," said the interrogator

'Why he ought to aspire to be an Alderman of New York City, or an Assistant Alderman anyway."

SOME TAMMANY JOBS

One of the most efficient adjuncts to Tweed's great fortune is the city printing of New York, which concentrates in an unknown paper called the New York Daily Transcript, and in the New York Printing Company, which is a concern supplied with machinery, type, and all the appurtenances of a vast printing house. Tweed frequently draws checks for $100,000 to $200,000, and even more, against the Treasury of New York, on account of the Transcript. During the year 1870 and 1871, he has obtained immense receipts from back accounts on street extensions, the Court House construction, and other things. The two great jobs now in hand by his ring are the widening of Broadway for up town, and the consolidation of all the market house interests of New York in a new market house structure which the ring has erected on the North river in the region of Thirteenth street. In the former case they assess the cost of widening the street through some of the most valuable blocks upon the broad area of the city, and satisfy the immediately affected property holders by setting the estimate high. Many of these very lots have been bought beforehand by the ring, and they paid for them in their entirety by opening the street. If you can estimate in your mind's eye the immense market stall interest in the city of New York, and then perceive that it is Tweed's object to drive all market folks into one new establishment, breaking up the other market houses by [illegible] and by forbidding private markets [illegible] the alleged necessity of the legal [illegible] inspectorship, you can understand [illegible] of avarice is this utterly shameless [illegible] man. One might think that [illegible] success would drive Tweed to [illegible] and so happily rid mankind of [illegible]ence and I am told by some who know him that his family have to keep watch over him, lest he should kill himself with over eating. He has always restrained himself somewhat in the matter of drink, and he has outlived another one of his vices, but his stomach appears to take example from his hand, and wants all it can masticate without collapse

TWEED'S COMPLACENCY.

Some gentlemen were giving me an instance [illegible] his self gratulation over his wealth in [illegible] of an old man whose name, as I remember it, was Vanderpool. Vanderpool was one of Tweed's creditors when he failed, some years ago, and there was $16,000 in that one [illegible]. Expecting never to get it, Vanderpool let the matter rest for years, but on one occasion, finding himself annoyed in some matter of municipal law, he thought he would go to so powerful a man as Tweed to get redress. He found Tweed in the best of humor, and was reproached for not having come oftener. Tweed instantly wrote a note remedying the matter of complaint, and said to him

'Abram' (I am not sure that I have either names correct), 'why don't you send in a little account which has been standing long? I need not pay you, of course, because I have taken the benefit of the act, but it is a small matter, and we have been generally good friends. You go home and look over your papers and get the memoranda together and send them to me, and I will fix everything for you."

"Tweed," said the other, "they say you are worth $5,000,000. Is that so?"

'Abram' said Tweed, 'if you can multiply that five million by three, and you won't go far out of the way if you multiply it by four." The Emperor Tiberius then chuckled and went on good-humoredly with his mode of life

OLD TAMMANY TIMES.

The history of Tammany Hall, when written by some future Eugene Sue or George Reynolds, will be an almost incredible story. Tammany Hall has seen the time when it was no worse than some of the better Republican clubs which have existed and do exist in our memory. When Albany was the seat of State power in New York, and long-headed politicians played for administrations as men sit down to a game of poker, the [illegible]ality of the performance gave it some zest which belongs to large diplomacy. About 1855 the demi respectable element of Tammany felt itself slowly sliding from power and beheld a barbarous crowd of new [illegible]rs, who had done its repeating, and been always servile, coming forward with new methods of wickedness and seriously seeking to [illegible] the whole city, for now the rascals had learned how to do it: the executive [illegible] was aspiring to push the manipulators from their seats and rule from underneath. A gentleman was telling me, a month or two ago, about the celebrated fight between Ike [illegible] and Fernando Wood, Dan Sickles at [illegible] supporting Wood for the Mayoralty, with the promise of being Corporation Counsel under him. Sickles and Wood triumphed chiefly by reason of Sickles holding the chair in the Tammany Council and doing the parliamentary ruling. Wood, who seldom keeps bargains, wheeled upon Sickles, and broke his pledge, and Sickles thereupon declared war against him, and put up Tieman for Mayor, whereby Wood was beaten. I asked this gentleman where Tweed and Sweeney were at that time. "Why," said he, "Sweeney was there, but he was merely a servitor then for Matt Brennan, and, although I remember his dark, lowering face, none of us suspected that his day would come." This was only fifteen years ago

TAMMANY AS AN ASSASSIN

One of the darkest elements of power in Tammany Hall is its power over the personal liberty of every man, woman, and child on the island of New York. Some weeks ago John Fox, one of what is called the "Young Democracy," and who had endeavored, by means of a newspaper and other contrivances, to beat down Tammany, got into a brawl with a tavern keeper who had "gone back" upon him. In the twinkling of an eye Fox left the island and came to Washington, where he stayed in the neighborhood of two weeks, or until he could compound with his antagonist. One of his friends was asked why John did not go to New York

"Why," said the friend, 'they would railroad him to Sing Sing the same day he got there. Nothing could save him.'

'Can Tammany send anybody to the penitentiary?'

'Yes, anybody. They could send me or you to-morrow, and they frequently threaten people with Sing Sing who baulk them. The entire police system, the whole court system, everything is perfectly centralized, and there can be just as much and just as little justice as Tweed's crowd may order.

And yet the Democratic party, which is the Tammany party of the United States, occasionally gives us lectures upon the evils of centralization. New York is not only a centralized but it is an Asiatic despotism.

The Dilemma of the Democracy

[From the N Y Times]

In the next National Convention of the Democratic Party the extreme views of the South are to be urged with a pertinacity that will prove embarrassing to the Northern section. Leading members of the Southern Press have announced that the South will never submit to the Reconstruction acts of Congress and that, in order to gain their support, the Democratic candidate must be placed on an ultra Southern Platform. To these declarations of the Southern Press are now added those of the venerable Vice President of the late Confederate States of America. Mr Stephens has been long in public life, is well acquainted with the temper of the whole South, and has to a large extent, formed and directed public opinion in the Gulf States. His opinions are, on every ground, entitled to attention. They are not influenced by passion but express the deliberate judgment of one who has, for years, been a careful and laborious student of politics. His bodily health is infirm but his mind is as strong and his perceptions are as clear as in the prime of his life

Our correspondent now traveling in the South "H W R" visited Mr Stephens at his home in Crawfordville, and held a long and interesting conversation with him, chiefly on political subjects. A part of this conversation our correspondent received permission to make public. We learn from it that Mr Stephens still adheres to the doctrine of State Rights, and refuses to look upon the present settlement as final. He denounces the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments as 'gross usurpations of power, passed by force or fraud." Negro suffrage is the great grievance of the South. The right to vote implies the right to hold office, and negroes are now sitting in the State Legislatures, and one has occupied in the Senate of the United States, the former seat of Jefferson Davis. How is all this to be reversed? The "fraud" complained of, if any was committed in the adoption and ratification of the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments, was partly the act of the South. It certainly was not the fault of the loyal States if "seven of the thirteen original colonies" were unrepresented at the time of the adoption of the amendments. But two thirds of all the States actually did ratify these amendments and they were incorporated in the Constitution in the manner provided by that instrument

Previous to the war the blustering of many of the editors at the South gave a wrong impression of the prevailing sentiment in that part of the country. Public opinion was made to appear as they wished it to be, not as it was in fact. This is not the case now. Abundant evidence is furnished by the political persecutions of the Ku Klux, and other facts, that hostility to the Constitution as it is, is the prevailing sentiment at the South, and that a favorable opportunity is calmly looked for to do battle once more for the "lost cause." We now have the additional evidence of Alexander H. Stephens. He has long been a director of Southern opinion, and is so still. His declarations carry great authority with them. The Democratic leaders and Press of the North may counsel acceptance of the situation, but the South obstinately refuses to heed them. In order that the Southern vote may be gained, the Democratic Party will be forced to declare that the settlement made since the war is unjust, and must be reversed. The Democratic leaders of the North know that if acceptance of the situation is refused, the people will, on their part, refuse to accept their platform, and their Presidential candidate would be ruined. But there is no escape from the dilemma. The South must be satisfied at any cost. What difficulties and dangers are thus created it is needless to point out. Nothing would be safe if the Democrats once regained power. The reviving commerce of the country would be paralyzed afresh by attacks on the national credit. We should have every principle jeopardized for which we have been contending since 1861. Are the people prepared to face such an emergency? We believe that the answer next year will be conclusive on the subject. The present Administration has amply proved its claims to confidence and support. The grievances of Republicans here and there weigh as nothing in the balance compared with the terrible risks which would be incurred by placing the Democrats in power. This will be seen much more clearly next year than it is seen even now, and the Republicans will once more be asked to defend the nation, which it saved a few years ago from utter disruption.
